Dear Parent/Carer

Re: A Level change Computer Science

I am writing to inform you about a change in your child's A Level course. For GCSE level, he/she has completed the course with the OCR exam board. In order to give more consistency to the students and to make the transition from GCSE to A Level easier for them, we have decided to offer the A Level in Computer Science using the OCR syllabus. This simply gives your child the chance to further develop and build on the skills acquired at GCSE level. The AQA Computer Science, A Level Syllabus, contains different content for A Level and if not completed at GCSE can be even more challenging for students.

If you have any questions about the above, please feel free to contact me on r.chaudhry@coxgreen.com
Kind regards,
